A Call to Account

It is now clear that the whole world has fallen victim to the lies and deception of what is falsely referred to as the 'pandemic'.

You might think that a lay Buddhist organisation, that exists soley to propagate the truth of the mystic law as encompassed in Nichiren Daishonin's (True) Buddhism, through strong faith and daily practice, should not only be able to transform this evil, but also encourage and show through actual proof to society at large, how iniquitous it is and how to overcome it.

Unfortunately, the very people who should be relied upon to demonstrate the fusion of wisdom and reality and provide genuine guidance and leadership have bought wholesale into the evil cult 'pandemic', namely our General Directors and National Leaders.

We are expected to believe that the latest SGI Peace Proposal, addressed to the United Nations, was written by President Daisaku Ikeda. There are serious doubts about this. It is full of bias and insinuation that departs markedly from his usual measured, balanced views. Indeed, it is Ironic that a section of it reads as follows;

''The unchecked spread of misinformation or incitement, often referred to by the neologism "infodemic," can intensify discrimination and prejudice, eroding the very foundations of human society. This is another kind of pandemic, one that parallels the spread of the actual disease*. The UN has urged strong caution in this regard, and in May last year launched the "*Verified" initiative to combat the spread of inaccurate or malicious information about COVID-19. The UN works with multiple media outlets to disseminate information whose accuracy has been confirmed by its own experts *as well as other scientists and specialists. The initiative calls for the participation of "*information volunteers" throughout the world, who will actively share reliable content as a means of keeping their families and communities safe and connected.

The dangers arising from failure to thoroughly expose errors by challenging falsehoods and misinformation are not limited to the resulting dearth of correct information and knowledge. Of even graver concern is the risk that existing discrimination and prejudice will interact with fears of infection that deepens the fractures within society and undermines the human rights and dignity that must be protected for all people."

Citing the Peace Proposal as an authoritative guide, our directorate here in SGI-UK are actively encouraging the members to accept the gene therapy, DNA altering, untested, not approved by the FDA, so called 'vaccine'. This amounts to nothing short of coercion, and brings to mind the 1940's priesthood in Japan urging the laity to accept the Shinto talisman. Not to mention the appalling immediate and possible long term distressing and health-threatening side effects of this experimental so called 'vaccine'.

As ordinary human beings, which we all are, you may take the view that this is a matter of personal choice for them. But as leaders of a Global Non Governmental Organisation (NGO) recognised by the United Nations, these leaders have a duty of care to the membership. It is their responsibility to ensure that such an organisation does not contravene international laws and put the lives of anyone at risk.

Many people have long been aware of the criminal nature of the restrictions placed upon the citizenry of the global population by governmental decree and illegal enforcement. Indeed, there is a class action lawsuit being brought by Dr Reiner Fuellmich and a team of international lawyers. They are challenging the legality of the governmental dictates in a Nurenburg style international court of human rights.

If the truth prevails (it inevitably does), governments and institutions will be held accountable. This includes NGO's. To put it bluntly, if our cherished organisation is found to have been guilty of breaking international law and notably the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, as supposedly upheld by the United Nations, leaders within those institutions and organisations will, and should face criminal charges.

How ironic that a lay Buddhist organisation should find itself at odds with the International Declaration of Human Rights! For anyone, such as myself, who holds any kind of leadership responsibility, this must be a matter of grave concern.

Therefore, I put it to you, our leaders, that you should immediately denounce the false narrative that has coerced sincere members into complying with unlawful, unnecessary restrictions and worse, sacrificing their health for the sake of compliance to an evil agenda, and that you immediately resign from your responsibilities.
